

GDPR Article 6 requires a lawful basis for processing personal data. Common bases include consent, contract, legal obligation, vital interests, public task and legitimate interests.

A startup should select and document the lawful basis before processing begins. Consent is not automatically appropriate; legitimate interests require a balancing test, and public task generally requires a basis in Union or Member State law.